"Get Ready" For a New Magazine

Western's new "Get Ready" mini-magazine will be delivered this week to every household in the college's seven-county service area. It will replace the class schedule mailing. However, printed class schedules are still available on campus and in local libraries. The magazine includes feature articles about students, a list of fall class topics, information about hot careers, important dates, and more. The latest fall course information is available 24-7 on the college web site:

Inmates Set to Graduate

Graduation ceremonies are set for 30 students in Western's prison education program. The events will honor 12 graduates at the Nevada State Prison on July 24, ten at the Northern Nevada Correctional Center on July 25, four at the Warm Springs Correctional Center on July 26, and four at the Lovelock Correctional Center on August 16. All ceremonies will begin at 1 p.m. at each facility.

COLLEGE CORNER

GET "LIFTED" TODAY WITH A FREE CUP OF COFFEE

"Lifted" at Sedway Café on the Carson City campus will serve free coffee all day today to test a new coffee vendor's products. It's a perfect opportunity to get reacquainted with colleagues and "perk" up the day.

OUT WITH THE OLD AND IN WITH THE NEW

New Western Nevada College sweatshirts, T-shirts, cups, portfolios and notebooks have arrived and are now on sale at the Carson City campus bookstore. All Western Nevada Community College imprinted items are also on sale, up to 50 percent off!

SUN COMES OUT ON FALLON COLLEGE FOR KIDS

Thirty children from the WNC Fallon OnStage! College for Kids class participated in the recent "Annie Jr." production at the Churchill County High School Theater. More than 600 people attended the three performances. Directors were David Wuth, Noreen Swenson and Sara Swenson, who also served as choreographer, and many of the children's parents volunteered with sets, props, costumes, snacks/refreshments, backstage, and more.
